GOOGLE ANALYTICS

Add me in Analytics

This lets me read how people use your site. It does not change the site. It does not let me edit anything.

ADD THIS ADDRESS

```
portal-files@matt-anthony-pho-1677791144949.iam.gserviceaccount.com
```

1. Open analytics.google.com and sign in with the Google account that owns Analytics.
2. Check the property name at the top. It should be the one for your live website. If you have more than one, pick that one first.
3. Click Admin. The gear is at the bottom left.
4. In the Property column, click Access management. The label may say Property access management. Use the Property column, not Account, so this stays on the one site.
5. Click the plus, then Add users.
6. Paste the address above.
7. Turn on Viewer only. Leave every other role off.
8. Leave Notify new users by email off. This address does not read mail.
9. Click Add.
10. Still in Admin, in the Property column, open Property settings. It may say Property details.
11. Copy the Property ID. It is a number. It is not the measurement ID that starts with G-.

Reply with that number. I do not need your Google password. If a screen does not match, send a screenshot and I will walk you through that click.

Matt Anthony
Squamish, BC